ABOUT ME

I'm Diptha Mollik Priom, and I am passionate about blending the worlds of technology and creativity. Armed with a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science and Engineering, my professional journey has led me to wear multiple hats as a data analyst and research assistant. I thrive on exploring the intricate dance between data and insights, contributing to the ever-evolving landscape of technology.

Beyond the binary realm, my heart finds solace in the vibrant hues of art. Music, film, singing, and writing are not just hobbies for me; they're portals to self-expression and inspiration. As a versatile creator, I've penned articles delving into the nuances of music, dissected the cinematic tapestry, and woven a short story.

On a different note, quite literally, my voice resonates in the professional realms of Bangladesh Radio and Bangladesh Television. As a professional singer, I find joy and purpose in connecting with audiences through the rhythmic cadence of melody.

Life, for me, is an orchestra where technology orchestrates efficiency and art provides the emotional crescendo. Join me on this symphonic journey where bits and bytes harmonize with the creative chords of expression.yourself here...

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

Writing

I have written articles on graffiti, music, film, and a short story. The article on graffiti was on the life of Banksy; the musical article was on the 'Film Background Score'; and I have written a review of 'Fahrenheit 451', a film by Francois Truffaut that is adapted from Ray Bradbury's of the same name. Lastly the short story was about two friends which is a fiction.

Singing

I have learned vocal music from a renowned music institution named 'Sangeet Bhaban'. Here, I have been learning since 2003, worked on voice modulation, and got training on various forms of music in Bangladesh.

Enlisting on Bangladesh Radio and Bangladesh Television as a professional singer is a great achievement for me and my career as an artist.
